Introduction

Reducing road trauma is the key objective of national training provider Performance Driving Australia.

2020 was a challenging year for all industries. Performance Driving Australia took advantage of the reduced training demand to develop training programs.

A new website is now operational that features a resource library for drivers and fleet managers to access important documents.

A new relationship was formed with the Australian Auto Sport Alliance (AASA). AASA provide insurance and guidelines for motoring events in Australia.

Performance Driving Australia are the preferred training provider for many large organisations across Australia and the Asia-Pacific. Performance Driving Australia services government organisations, private business and the mining, oil and gas industries.

We have developed many programs to suit our clients over the years.

- Corporate Driving Programs
- 4WD Training
- On-Road Training & Assessment
- Mine Site Training
- Heavy Vehicle Training
- V.I.P / Security Driver Training
- Valet Driving
- Vehicle product testing, launches, events and education.
- TV / Film Driving

Training is adapted to suit each organisation. Your unique operating environment, driving conditions and workforce experience are all taken into consideration when providing a training solution that delivers real outcomes.

Our online training programs provide an option to reduce down time for employees attending our courses and allow for more hands-on practical training.

COVID-19 – At the time of writing – training can be provided in all states of Australia in line with the relevant guidelines. At all times Performance Driving Australia will acknowledge and adapt procedures and practices to comply with regulations including social distancing, contact tracing and the use of sanitiser stations. Please contact us for the latest information on how we comply with COVID-19 regulations.

Mission Statement

Our mission at Performance Driving Australia is to safeguard road users by increasing the knowledge and skills of drivers, with a focus on designing and delivering superior driver training programs.
