Beat the Overheat! Introducing the All-New Radiator Gun

Airborne dust, dirt, trash and debris can be a real problem for heavy equipment and vehicle engines. Cooling systems routinely suck in foreign objects that collect on radiator fins and other surfaces. Ineffective or infrequent cleaning can lead to engine overheating, engine failure, or worse.

Designed to quickly and effectively blast away debris, the Guardair Radiator Gun features a unique, multi-port linear nozzle that delivers a powerful, wide spray pattern of compressed air. By incorporating the linear nozzle into the tip of a 1/2" diameter, 60" heavy-duty stainless steel extension, this configuration provides unparalleled cleaning within hard-to-access radiator housings and engine bays. A rugged, in-line style, thermally insulated handle features a dead-man trigger for safe operation, and an adjustable auxiliary handle provides sure, two-handed control. Compressed air to power the Guardair Radiator Gun can be supplied by a 185 cfm tow-behind, or stationary in-plant compressor.
